

PERSONAL STATEMENT

I am a determined and adaptable multi-disciplined designer. I believe passionately in the design process as a means of communication and creative problem solving. I have a broad and comprehensive skill set based in web design and digital graphics but have also trained extensively in print, 3D modelling and digital audio and video. I have experience applying these skills in a creative and corporate context for both commercial, educational and research purposes. I deploy all of these skills in my work with Ulster University and am also responsible for marketing and global digital strategy of the Faculty of Arts promoting 30 degree courses from bachelors to doctorates and five international research centres. Also acted as digital innovation consultant to fast growing SMEs via contracts with Enterprise Ireland and Invest Northern Ireland.
